Sure Cure for Catarrh.

More Holes Through Roof of Mouth

Mr. O. D. Rilton, writing from Norwood, Michigan, December 22, 1876, after his wife had used three bottles of "Dr. Sykes's Cure," said: "The holes in the roof of her mouth are all right now."

Dr. Sykes's Cure for Catarrh.

Alternative, Disinfectant and Certain Cure.

SALESMAN, N. C.

My son, who had been afflicted with catarrh for several years, used the medicine according to directions. His general health improved rapidly, and by the time he used two bottles he could not tell that anything was the matter. This medicine is what I need. I am a sufferer from catarrh. I repeat it as a great alternative, disinfectant and certain cure, and the directions are so simple that a child can follow them.

BOMBO AND JULIET.

Gould's new opera, "Bommo and Juliet," received its first performance in this city, at the Grand Opera house, last evening. The piece, which it contains a great deal of remarkably fine music, will hardly exceed the composer's other works in popularity. The libretto is a vast lettered document, and the music is as to be almost absurd, and little is left but the mutilated plot. Miss Abbott's Juliet is sufficiently warm to suit the most ardent lover.

Her singing, the highest commendation of her friends. She showed more sustained power than she has heretofore exhibited, and a greater genius for acting than she has received credit for, particularly in the final scene of the act.

Supreme Court.

Cases decided Tuesday, January 27:

KEEPING GAMING HOUSE—EVIDENCE OF WHAT WAS SAID.

8841. Charles Padgett et al. vs. The State. Sullivan C. C. Revere, Niles, J.

Proceeding for keeping a gaming house. The indictment is held sufficient upon the authority of 13 Ind. 204. In a case of this kind the fact that the defendant had been convicted of a similar offense for gaming may be proved by circumstance, but the proof must at least show that he had knowledge that his house was a gaming house.

(22 Ind. 40; 10 Iowa; 43; Moore's Crim. Law, sec. 508.) Evidence showing that persons had gone into a room over the defendant's saloon, and were seated at a table, without defendant's permission, and played for money, and that defendant had refused to allow persons to enter said room for the purpose of gaming, and showing that the defendant was never present when any gaming took place, and that the players used their own cards, and occupied seats improvised from lemon boxes, does not establish such knowledge on the part of defendant as to make them liable for keeping a gaming house.

LACKEY—GENERAL CHARACTER OF DEFENDANT FOR HONESTY.

8881. The State vs. Margaret Bloom. Allen C. C. Appeal sustained. Worden, J.

The appellee was indicted for larceny and acquitted. The defendant was a woman of good moral character, and her general reputation in the neighborhood was good. The court held that the evidence was not sufficient to sustain the verdict.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Indiana Baptist state convention, held at the First Baptist church yesterday, the annual secretary reported the board able to meet the expenses of their missions. Alderman Thomas E. Chandler is being strongly pressed to enter the lists as a candidate for the reorganization of county treasurer. If he does conclude to go in, some arrangements thought to be perfected now will be upset.

The Central woman's Christian association temperance union has changed its place of meeting to Y. M. C. A. parlors, where its gospel meetings are also held. It will meet weekly hereafter on Thursday, beginning at 2½ P. M. to-morrow.

On change 16-day a unanimous vote of that it was tendered to R. C. Pendleton, E. C. Howlett, H. S. Watson, F. P. Bush, H. S. Fraser, D. M. Randall, W. P. Gallup and H. C. Wilson, for services rendered in managing the board of trade ball.

The semi-annual school changes occur next Monday. The promotions will be made and about a dozen substitute teachers replaced by graduates from the training school. The appointments will be made by the school board, Tuesday night.

The Chicago wheat market advanced nearly four cents this morning and at 2 o'clock this afternoon it was still going up. The local market is feeling the effect of the movement and a firmer feeling is felt and higher prices are established.

Steinway & Sons, the New York piano manufacturers, have taken the agents of their instruments in this state out of the hands of Mr. Charles Soehner, who has long represented the house, placing it with that of several other states with D. H. Baldwin & Co., of this city and Cincinnati.

The last rail on the Indianapolis, Decatur and Springfield railroad was laid to-day at noon, at a point eighteen miles west of the city. Mrs. Hammond, wife of the president, will go out to-morrow and drive the last spike, if the weather permits. It will be several weeks before the road will be in order.

Only four offers of buildings for library purposes were made to the committee at its meeting yesterday. R. L. McQuat proposed to sell the lot on the northwest corner of Ohio and Meridian streets, including the old Braden block, for $17,000. It is understood that other offers will be made before a decision is arrived at.

Messrs. Burnap and Harding, two expert accountants, have been sent out by the directors of the L. E. and W. railroad to make an examination of the condition of the concern. The examination is the regular annual one customary on all railroad, and has been postponed until now because of the unsettled condition of the road.

POULTRY DRESSING.
The manner pursued in the Local Establishments—Picking Turkeys Alive.

The method of dressing, or more properly undressing poultry, employed in the large commission houses would be a revelation to the ordinary chicken killer. The fiddle chase after the bird early in the morning, the capture of the same late in the evening; the confusion, fuss, commotion, and the yards upon yards of advice are all done away with.

Everything there is done with neatness and dispatch. This is where it is done: A dirty, dingy room, furnished with a carpenter's bench, a block of wood, several bloody barrels, some tubs of water, a wide mouthed iron kettle steaming over a short stove, and a score of stout cords suspended from the rafters. And this is how it is done. The executioner selects from the coop half a dozen of chickens and with a skill, which only comes from long practice, he lays their heads one after another, on the block. Quickly and with a single stroke to the neck, he cuts off the heads and throws the bodies into a barrel, where they are given an opportunity to die in privacy. They are allowed just two minutes to finish this business, when the picker is not in a hurry, and at the end of that time they are sprawled out on the floor, and one at a time they are soaked into the pot of boiling water and picked, and such picking! In less time than it takes to write it, the body is as bare as a billiard ball. The operator passes his hands over the fowl as gracefully and seemingly with as little effort as a magician does over an empty hat from which he will immediately produce six live rabbits and a dozen white pigeons, and the result is equally incomprehensible.

From his hands the bird passes into the tub of water and is ready for the market. This is the wet pick. The most popular method of picking for the eastern market is the dry pick. The wet pick, it is claimed, renders poultry more susceptible to the weather than the dry pick does. In dry picking, in this city, only the larger kinds of poultry are chosen. It is the favorite way of dressing turkeys and geese. To dry pick a turkey, the bird is taken alive from the coop and tied by his legs with one of the hanging cords. His throat is then cut, and before the first drop of blood has fallen, almost before the turkey has a chance to realize his situation, his tail is gone and long before he dies he is minus even his pin feathers. Sometimes the feathers come unwillingly, the skin must then come with them. There is a reason for this cruelty. When the bird is dead, the feathers become set in their sockets and to dress it, it is necessary either to soak it in hot water or tear all the skin off of the body in taking off the feathers. The first would injure the value of the fowl not less than the second and the one way left is to pick alive. Geese are always picked this way. Ducks and chickens are usually treated to the wet pick in the west, although in the east the dry pick is the most popular manner of dressing them.

Why School District No. 25 is Assessed.
Several communications have been received at The News office conveying the information that considerable indignation exists among the parents in school district No. 25, over the assessment of five cents on the pupils.

Varianishing the desks. To a News reporter who called upon him for an explanation, this morning, Superintendent Tarbell said: "School building No. 25 is one of the new ones, erected last fall. It contains 450 desks. Of these fifteen have been scratched and disfigured by the pupils in various ways—some by the children writing upon them with hard pencils, others by nails driven into slats covers and projecting therefrom. To varnish these cost Miss Bradshaw, the principal, seventy-five cents, five cents per desk, and this amount, under a rule of school commissioners, saying that all damage to school property shall be repaired at the expense of the person committing the trespass, she has asked the children to pay.

I may be that she has not fully explained why the demand is made, or the children do not correctly state the facts to their parents, but so far as I know she has done what is right. Three of the parents called upon me yesterday and I satisfied them by paying the assessment myself. I am willing to pay for all if they will only not bother me about it."

Knights of Pythias.
The grand lodge K. of P. elected the following officers for the ensuing year at the afternoon session yesterday:

Grand chancellor—James R. Canahan, of Lafayette.
Grand vice chancellor—W. H. Gillman, of Rockville.
Grand prelate—James T. Darnell, of Greencastle.
Grand keeper of records and seals—D. B. Shideler, of Indianapolis.
Grand master of exchequer—M. L. Dunlop, of Franklin.
Trustees—S. P. Oyler, Franklin; C. O. Lehman, Edinburg; J. B. Stump, Indianapolis.

The proposed amendment, requiring two black balls to reject an applicant was defeated 67 to 6.

The sessions to-day were devoted to the consideration of routine matters, and after the installation of officers the grand lodge adjourned this afternoon.

Supreme Court.
The following cases were decided to-day. Abstracts will be published to-morrow:

Roberts et al. vs. Marcus H. Shaver, et al. 626. Green vs. Worden. 8344. Michael F. Schmelzler, treasurer, vs. Chas. H. Aldrich. Allen S. C. Reversed. Bid. 8350. Daniel Gibson vs. The State. Hamilton C. C. Affirmed. Niblack, J.

How to Feed a Crowd.
The managers of the board of trade ball told R. C. J. Pendleton, their caterer, how many guests to provide for. He figured on 1,600, and when every one had finished there were only one gallon of coffee, a peck of rolls and one plate each of tongue and ham left. There was consumed 140 gallons of coffee, 30 gallons of cream, 25 pounds of butter, 125 pounds of ham, 100 pounds of turkey, 6 dozen tongues and 2,000 hot rolls. A pretty close calculation.

The Courts.

The jury in the case of Margaret Neutzel vs. Richard Besig, gave her a verdict of $200, for having her nose broken by a blow from defendant.

Judge Howe is hearing a motion for a new trial in the case of Amanda Mortland vs. the city, a suit for damages by the death of Alex. Mortland, which resulted in a verdict for the defendant.

A reminiscence of the Bugbee affair came up in Judge Elliott's court this morning. Mason & Cook sued J. W. Bugbee, and recovered a judgment against him for about $1,000. They attached a claim of $250 held by Bugbee against Huey & Johnson. Holt & Bugbee, of Boston, came in and were made parties to the case, claiming that the Huey & Johnson account was really owing to them, Joseph W. Bugbee, being the agent in the matter, and settling up that personal judgment against him ought not to be out of the case.

Holt & Bugbee and Mason & Cook compromised their differences yesterday, and to-day, Judge Elliott was hearing an argument as to what ought to be collected from Huey & Johnson. Judgment for $400 was recorded to-day in room 3, in favor of Theo. P. Haughey, against Elizabeth M. Keeper et al., on foreclosure.

Judge Heller this morning acquitted Vera Snowdon, colored, of the charge of stealing clothes. Michael Hanrahan was fined ten dollars and costs for selling liquor to a minor.

SHARP PRACTICE.
The apathy of the public respecting the adulteration of food appears to act as a stimulant to the unscrupulous for inventing methods by which the consumer may at least be cheated, if not injured in health and constitution. One of the latest additions to the tricks of the trade has within the past few days been discovered, and we take pleasure in giving it publicity in order that honest tradesmen may be on their guard, as well as to assist our readers in breaking up a practice which, if allowed to continue, will be an incalculable injury to them. It appears that certain parties in this city, as well as elsewhere, have taken the unscrupulous sugar obtained from corn, commonly called grape sugar, reduced it by pulverization to a fine white powder, and then mixed it with yellow refined sugar, returning the mixture to the original packages and selling it as the product of the refinery branded upon the barrel. It is said that a large profit thus accrues to the mixer, and that already this scheme has been carried on much more extensively than would at first be imagined. We understand that our readers, the reputation of whose product is being thus traduced, are using their best efforts to put a stop to the business, and it is to be hoped that in the interest of health to put it no higher, they will be entirely successful.
